Remote Work Policy

1. Introduction

This document describes the remote work policy for engineering staff. It covers who can work remotely, what equipment is required, expected working hours, and how a remote arrangement can end. Read the whole policy before submitting a remote work request to your manager.

2. Eligibility

Employees become eligible for remote work after completing six months in their current role. Eligibility is granted by the employee's direct manager and reviewed every twelve months. Contractors and interns are not eligible under this policy and should refer to their engagement terms.

3. Equipment and Security

The company provides a laptop, a hardware security key, and a VPN license to every approved remote worker. All company data must stay on encrypted company devices. Personal devices may not be used to access internal systems under any circumstances.

4. Working Hours

Remote employees are expected to be reachable during core hours, 10:00 to 16:00 in their local timezone. Outside core hours, employees may arrange their schedule freely as long as weekly deliverables are met. Time zone changes of more than three hours must be reported in advance.

5. Termination of Remote Arrangement

A remote work arrangement can be ended by either the employee or the manager with two weeks written notice. Immediate termination of the arrangement may occur if security requirements in section three are violated. The employee then returns to their designated office location.